

REMARKS

Applicant presents here a series of additional claims for prosecution which are directed to specific applications of the present invention. In order to provide a guide through these additional claims, applicant sets forth a brief description of these claims.

A. Music CD Products.

Claims 2 through 14 are directed to a system for previewing audio CD music products. These claims differ from those claims allowed in the parent case in that no subscriber information is necessary, nor is the use of an optical scanner.

Claims 15 through 17 are directed to an apparatus which permits music product previewing and which stores demographic data generated during use of the preview feature.

Claims 18 through 20 relate to music product previewing wherein product identification takes place by selection of an existing reference to the music product.

Claims 21 through 22 are directed to music product previewing wherein product identification takes place by entry of a some identifying code.

Claims 22 through 25 are similar in scope to claims 18 through 20, but they delete reference to use of the system in a retail store location.

Claims 26 and 27 are similar in scope to claims 21 and 22, but they delete reference to use of the system in a retail store location.

B. Software Products

Claims 28 through 40. See comments above with respect to claims 2 through 14, except applied to software products.

Claims 41 through 43. See comments above with respect to claims 15 through 17, except applied to software products.

Claims 44 through 46. See comments above with respect to claims 18 through 20, except applied to software products.

Claims 47 through 48. See comments above with respect to claims 21 through 22, except as applied to software products.

Claims 49 through 51. See comments above with respect to claims 23 through 25, except as applied to software products.

Claims 52 through 53. See comments above with respect to claims 26 through 27, except as applied to software products.

C. Video Products

Claims 54 through 66. See comments above with respect to claims 2 through 14, except as applied to video products.

Claims 67 through 69. See comments above with respect to claims 15 through 17, except as applied to video products.

Claims 70 through 72. See comments above with respect to claims 18 through 20, except as applied to video products.

Claims 73 through 74. See comments above with respect to claims 21 through 22, except as applied to video products.

Claims 75 through 77. See comments above with respect to claims 23 through 25, except as applied to video products.

Claims 78 through 79. See comments above with respect to claims 26 through 27, except as applied to video products.

D. Interactive CD-ROM Products.

Claims 80 through 92. See comments above with respect to claims 2 through 14, except as applied to interactive CD-ROM products.

Claims 93 through 95. See comments above with respect to claims 15 through 17, except as applied to interactive CD-ROM products.

Claims 96 through 98. See comments above with respect to claims 18 through 20, except as applied to interactive CD-ROM products.

Claims 99 through 100. See comments above with respect to claims 21 through 22, except as applied to interactive CD-ROM products.

Claims 101 through 103. See comments above with respect to claims 23 through 25, except as applied to interactive CD-ROM products.

Claims 104 through 105. See comments above with respect to claims 26 through 27, except as applied to interactive CD-ROM products.

Applicant submits that these claims are supported in the original application in at least the following places: Page 7, lines 15 through 21; and original claims 1 and 4. These claims were intended to represent generic claims which would cover each of the species now separately claimed.

Respectfully submitted,

LIMBACH & LIMBACH

Dated: April 19, 1993

By: Michael E. Dergosits
Michael E. Dergosits
Registration No. 31,243

2001 Ferry Building
San Francisco, CA 94111
(415) 433-4150

Attorneys for Applicant

Atty. Docket No. JOSH-0111